AMERICA'S RICHEST GOLD MINE

By ED C. UREN

Up in the Black Hills of South Dakota when the Manuel brothers in 1876 first looked upon the reddish, iron-stained slates and porphyry outcrop of what is now the Homestake they little realized that they had discovered what is considered to be the world's largest low grade gold mine.

A year later there were 35 stamps working on the lode. In 1904 there were 1000 stamps crushing 4000 tons per day from the oxidized zone where practically all the values could be obtained by amalgamation and the ore was quarried from open pits, the largest of which was over 800 feet long, 400 feet wide and from 200 to 300 feet deep.

The mine is not an open fissure filled with ore. It is a broad mineralized zone of crushed schists and quartz standing almost vertical, interspersed with porphyrite dikes and without defined walls. It is mined underground sometimes to a width of 400 feet and it is at times hard for even the experienced miner to d...guish the pay ore from the c... rock except by assay.

The gold is in such a finely divided state that it is not visible to the naked eye although its distribution is remarkably uniform.

Homestake has a record of about 400 million dollars in gold from its 150 miles of drifts, although if its production were based upon $35 gold the record would be nearer $600 million. There are 80 miles of underground narrow gauge railroad and a bevy of 34 compressed air locomotives that shunt the ore trains to the shafts.

The two main shafts are 4200 feet in depth, six compartments, 14 by 19 feet, lined with steel and concrete. The hoists are driven by two 1500 horse power motors, the cable being 1 7-8 inches wound upon conical drums 25 feet in the larger diameter.

The hoisting speed is 2100 feet per minute and 4000 tons of ore valued at $13.30 per ton are hoisted every 15 hours in 9 ton skips.

Homestake solves its tailings problem very effectively. It drops them back into the stopes through 6-inch rubber lined pipe against bulkheads lined with burlap and finds the system much cheaper than trying to fill with coarse rock. Sand filling of open stopes from mill tailings has been in use for many years in South Africa and it has been found that where this filling has been compressed by setting ground it becomes so hard and compact that it requires blasting to make an opening in it.

At a cost of $610 per day the mine uses 3 million sticks of 40 per cent dynamite and 857 miles of fuse. It drills 303 miles of holes and drives 39,000 feet of drifts and cross cuts in yearly development.

Its 180 stamps, now used instead of the 1000 which pulverized the ore in 1904, weigh 1550 pounds and are used only as primary crushers, feeding into ten 6x12 foot rod mills. The whole operation requiring 2300 horse power. Sixty per cent of the gold is recovered by amalgamation, the remainer by cyaniding.

The mine operates its own timber and coal properties as well as three hydro-electric plants. Its coal vein near Gillette, Wyoming, is from 25 to 90 feet thick.

It furnishes free of charge surgical and medical treatment and hospital care to its employees and their dependants, employing five physicians.

In the town of Lead it maintains a recreation building containing a lounge and game room, billiard and pool tables, bowling alleys, swimming pool and a free public library.

To the state of South Dakota Homestake is literally the goose that lays the golden eggs which fatten the treasury. Political heavy weights of the past have plucked the goose, however, until it shivers, and each succession of cash hungry legislators have an urge to pull a few more feathers until today Homestake pays the state and federal government 19.6 cents out of every gross dollar it produces, while throughout the nation the average large corporation pays about six cents. This leaves only 80.4 cents for wages, supplies and replacements and for the stockholders whose savings have made possible the expensive plants and equipment.

This tax, on top of the increased cost of mining and the present status of gold results in a dvilidend of but a little over three per cent paid so far this year and makes gold mining, even to this old and tried producer, rather an unattractive operation.

HYDRAULIC ASSOCIATION MEETS

NEVADA CITY: The California Hydraulic Mining Association will meet at the National Hotel, Nevada City, on Sunday, October 12, at 2 p. m. There will be the usual round table luncheon at 1 p. m.

MEET MR. HUCKINS, NEW OWNER OF THE NATIONAL HOTEL

NEVADA CITY: At 33, Vance Huckins, new owner of the National Hotel here is in the business in a big way. He also owns the Clunie Hotel in Sacramento, and the Gartland Hotel in San Francisco.

Huckins has been in the hotel business all his life.

He reports that one of his earliest questions was to ask his mother whether a bell-boy or a waiter officiated in the nuptial transportation, rather than the traditional stork.

In the immediate future, he plans a general renovation of the old Nevada City hostelry. First step will be a new exterior coat of paint. He expects to spend about half his time managing his property here.

Only change in personnel is the installation of Floyd LeFebvre as manager. LeFebrve, former assistant manager at the Clunie, will be glad to arrange reservations for any local people at Sacramento and San Francisco Hotels.

Huckins' grandfather owned the Huckins Hotel in Oklahoma City, which at one time was the capitol of the state. His father built the Sir Francis Drake hotel in San Francisco.

Huckins is familiar with small city hotel business, having managed the Eureka Inn at one time.

"This area should participate in the three-year Centennial Celebration to the fullest," he says. "The town holds a great deal of interest for visitors. This interest should be capitalized upon, for any traveler helps nearly everyone in the community. I personally hope to be able to make a contribution to the business life of the town."

KLEIBER FIRE TRUCK OUT OF COMMISSION

NEVADA CITY: Fire Chief Earnest O. Young reports that the rear end of the fire department's 6-cylinder Kleiber truck has been stripped of all the teeth on the gears.

It will be necessary to secure replacement parts from Sacramento.

"The truck has been consistently overloaded," said Young, describing the source of the trouble.

The mishap occurred after the use of the truck by the department in ettinguishing the brief but violent Sugar Loaf blaze.

METHODISTS PLAN IMPROVEMENTS

NEVADA CITY: Raymond C. Murchie, treasurer of the Methodist church, was named treasurer of the church's proposed building fund, at a meeting of the Official Board.

The board plans to paint the church and parsonage, purchase an electric organ, and make other improvements in the structures. A sum of $5,000 will be raised to meet the expense.

WET WEATHER CAR CRASH, DRIVER'S INJURY CRITICAL

NEVADA CITY: Adolph Emanuel DeFratus, 29, of Oakland, is in a critical condition today in a local hospital as a result of an automobile accident which occurred yesterday at 12:20 P. M. when his car skidded in the rain and struck an eighteen-inch tree.

DeFratus, in his automobile, was on Nevada street at the city limits, driving west. The car slipped and skidded as it traversed a hump and a curve, and turning almost completely around, crashed into a tree at the side of the road, broadside. The wrecked auto looked as if it had been literally wrapped around the tree in front of the Stanley Hornberger residence.

The injured man climbed out of his car, examined the damage to it, and discussed the mishap with Chief of Police Max Solaro, and then collapsed unconscious. Dr. Bernard W. Hummelt was called, and DeFratus was taken by ambulance to the Community Hospital in Grass Valley. Dr. Hummelt reported a possible skull fracture.

DeFratus, a salesman for Aetna Insurance Company, was driving a black 1942 Studebaker Commander five-passenger coupe, which was towed from the scene by Olympia Towing Service.

The Nevada Street area where the accident occurred has been the scene of a number of serious accidents in recent months.

VETERAN'S OFFICIALS THANK THURMAN FOR SPLENDID SERVICE

THE AMERICAN LEGION
Department of California

Mr. Allen G. Thurman,
Colfax, California.

Dear Assemblyman Thurman:

The session of the legislature having been completed and the period elapsed for the governor to sign bills, I feel that the session would not be complete if I did not take this opportunity to thank you for your unselfish and enthusiastic support of the veteran program sponsored by the American Legion.

Leaders who have made a study of veteran legislation, enacted in the various states, tell us that California has the distinction of having the most outstanding and progressive veterans laws, and your part in accomplishing this, I hope, is a source of pride to you as it is to me. To yourself and other legislators, who have aided in accomplishing this, the veteran should, indeed, be grateful.

With kindest personal regards,
Yours very truly,
(Signed) LYNN G. PETERSON

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA MINING NEWS

CALIF. PRODUCES 34,500 OUNCES IN SEPTEMBER

WASHINGTON: Gold was coming out of the ground in this country at a faster rate in July than any time since 1942, the Bureau of Mines reported.

The production of 197,148 ounces in September wsa 30,000 ounces more than the June output, and 19 per cent above the same month last year. The bureau said the increase was mostly attributable to the resumption of large scale seasonal production in Alaska.

Gold production by ounces was given by the bureau for July included: California, 34,500; Nevada 6000.

PECKHAM HILL PROPERTY IN PLACER TO WORK

AUBURN (Placer Co.): The purchase and operation of the Peckham Hill drift gravel property in the Forest Hill Divide area is reported to be planned by Peckham Hill Gold Mines, Inc. The company completed driving of a 3,660 foot drainage-working tunnel at the mine in 1942, uncovered gold-bearing gravel in the channel, and was expanding operations when work was stopped by the wartime ban on gold mining.

Located near the Gray Eagle, Mayflower and other producers of rich placer gold in the early years of the district, Peckham Hill contains almost two miles of lava capped ancient river channels. It was worked on a substantial scale for many years and is said to have yielded considerable gold.

George B. Burnham is president of Peckham Hill Gold Mines, which holds the property under a lease from the Mayflower Gravel Mining Company of San Francisco. Headquarters of the company have been established in Reno, Nev.

ERNEST A. WILTSEE, PROMINENT GOLD MINER, DIES

SACRAMENTO: The arrangements were made to return to Poughkeepsie, N. Y., the body of Ernest A. Wiltsee, 85, picturesque Superior California mining figure, who died in the Sutter Hospital Saturday.

He was vice president of the California Historical Society. At one time his collection of early California historical items was considered one of the finest in the state.

Wiltsee confined his mining activities to the gold industry. One of his latest ventures was the acquisition of extensive gravel holdings in the North San Juan area of Nevada county, where he intended to start drag line operations.

A sister, Winifred Wiltsee of Long Island, N. Y., made the arrangements to have the body returned to Poughkeepsie, Wiltsee's birthplace. Arrangements were handled by the W. F. Gormley & Sons Chapel.

CALAVERAS COUNTY ACTIVITY GAINING

SAN ANDREAS (Calaveras Co.): Gold mining continues to record improvement in the Mokelumne Hill, Railroad Flat, West Point and other Calaveras county districts. The Blackstone Mine is operating a ball mill with a daily capacity of 25 tons of ore at its Blackstone property four miles west of West Point, unwatering of the Ridge mine near Mokelumne Hill has reached the 200 foot level, and Brink, O'Hanlon and associates have placed a small mill in service at the New Champion in the West Point area.

California Gold Mines, Inc. is reported to have resumed operation of the Oro Plate gold property near Murphys, a major producer about 60 years ago. Good ore was available for milling when wartime restrictions forced closing of the mine in 1942.

20 YEARS AGO

One of North Bloomfield's most interesting landmarks, the old drug store, was being dismantled. The building, owned by Mrs. Nettie Knotwell of Chico had been closed as a place of business for fifteen years. Prior to its closing there had been a physician with a large practice, but 1908 to 1910 saw an active outflow of the population that so reduced the number of residents that the physician was forced to take his departure and the drug store ceased to serve the people. The upper story of the building was used by the Knights of Pythias for lodge rooms and that portion of the structure was being left intact. J. B. McKinney of Chico, well remembered by old residents as a former citizen of North Bloomfield, was in charge of the dismantling.

The Shakespeare and Current Event club of Camptonville met at the home of the president, Mrs. Frank M. Groves, to continue the reading of Macbeth. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Julius E. Pauly and the hostess.

THURMAN CITES RECORD ON FARMS, HIGHWAYS, MINES AND LUMBER

Concluding Campaign Statement of Assemblyman Allen G. "Scoop" Thurman

"On Tuesday, October 14th, the special election campaign for state senator from the seventh district will come to a close.

"Every candidate for public office should declare his position and policies. On that premise, the voters of my district are entitled to know my views and I therefore take this means of commuincating my intentions to them:-

"The office of state senator is one of the most important trusts the people of this state can bestow. I pledge to the voters of this district when elected to the senate, as I have in past public service to conduct the office with dignity and propriety, fully realizing my responsibility to further good government.

"The farmers of this district know that I have assisted and worked with them for the advancement and protection of their industry ever since I was elected to the legislature. I will continue to support their program.

"The mining industry is of great importance and, like agriculture, is part of the life blood of this particular district. I do not have to promise you what I will do for these basic industries because my record speaks for itself. Ever since my election to the assembly I have authored or coauthored many bills and resolutions dealing with the welfare of the mining industry. My interest has always been with the mining people and I intend to carry on if elected as I have in the past.

"Lumbering is also one of our major industries. I have been able to secure the passage of many bills which have materially benefited this industry and by my activities helped to defeat many measures which would have been very detrimental.

"A community or district may have most of the material things of life yet not be a fit place in which to live or raise a family. The seventh district is not such a place because the people of this district believe in education. Teaching is one of the most important professions of any community. I have always supported the wants of our educators both in the legislature and in the editorial columns of my newspaper. Without adequate facilities and a living wage for the teachers it is impossible to properly educate our children and insure that they will become good citizens.

"Like education, recreation of the proper kind will eliminate most of the evils of child delinquency. I have promoted or sponsored athletics in this district for the past twenty-five years. I do not feel that it is necessary for me to promise that I will do something about this. I have had a part in the elimination of child delinquency these many years and to the best of my ability intend to continue with my activities.

"I have been a member of the Fish & Game and Conservation committees of the Assembly. I have endeavored to do at all times the thing best for the sportsmen of my district. I shall continue to serve them.

"I do not believe it is necessary to be a veteran to properly take care of veteran needs. My record on veteran legislation is well known. I have received the commendation of the legislative representatives of both the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars for the efforts I have expended in behalf of their programs. My sympathy has always been with them and will continue to be as long as I am a member of the legislature.

"One of the most important factors in the development of this district or, in fact, any district in this state are highways. I have been a member of the highway committee of the assembly since my election to office. I have authored or co-authored every important highway bill which has originated in the Assembly. I was a co-author of the Collier-Burn's highway act and was instrumental in obtaining adoption of the "Mayo" amendments which guarantee to the mountain counties a fair distribution of the gas tax. Without adequate highways no community can prosper.

"I can with pride stand on my highway (state and county) record. Knowing the importance of highways to this district you can rest assured I will continue to further your interest in this respect.

"I promise when elected to serve the people of my district in a progressive and constructive manner. I am not a part of any political combination nor have I ever served any county in my district to the detriment of another. I have always served the ten counties as if each of them was my home county.

"I believe that my knowledge of legislative duties and my practical experience gained as an assemblyman for the past nine years is an invaluable qualification as a member of the senate and will enable me to properly administer the office I seek.

"If you believe my policies represent good government I most respectfully solicit your support of my candidacy at the special election on Tuesday, October 14th, 1947.

Sincerely,
ALLEN G. "Scoop" THURMAN

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY OF NEVADA CITY

Holds services every Sunday in their church, 114 Boulder St., at 11 o'clock.

Sunday school at 9:45 a. m.

A Wednesday evening testimonial meeting is held on the first Wednesday of each month at 8 o'clock.

Our reading room is in the church edifice. It is open Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, holidays excepted, from 2 to 4 p. m.

The public is cordially invited to attend our services and visit the reading room.

"Are Sin, Disease and Death real?" This question is the subject of the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon for Sunday, October 12. The Golden Text is taken from Psalms: "He that is our God is the God of salvation; and unto God the Lord belong the issues from death" (68:20).

Included in the sermon are the following citations:

Romans: "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God" (12:1,2).

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Truth, Life, and Love are a law of annihilation to everything unlike themselves, because they declare nothing except God" (p. 243).

MRS. BROCK WRITES PLEA FOR BETTER TREATMENT OF ANIMALS

Nevada City, California
Oct. 7, 1947

Editor, Nevada City-Grass Valley Nugget,

Dear Mr. Leete:

I have been asked to make the following information public. It is about the Animal Pound for Nevada City. This information may make enemies for me, but I hope it will also make friends.

I came here first in 1934. The animal situation here has always bothered me. There are always hungry cats and dogs roaming the streets, tipping over garbage cans, etc. I have given temporary shelter to a number of dogs, until I could find homes for them. And to a great many cats. Since we are not "cat droppers" ourselves, we had to destroy most of the cats. As usual, they have been dropped because they were females or ill, or had sores. I have written letters before, about "cat droppers," so will not repeat here what my personal opinions are concerning them.

However, a few months ago, some business people here, told me about going out to the "dump" where the pound is. There were a number of dogs there. They were so hungry and thirsty and in such a pitiful condition and so pleading, that these people talked to the man in charge of them. He seemed very indifferent about the conditions and told them they would probably be picked up or destroyed before long, as they did one or the other every few weeks. Since this was not the first, nor the last, complaint I have heard about this pound, I wrote to what I thought was the State Humane Society at Sacramento. A copy of the answer to my letter is enclosed for publication.

Mr. B. E. Martenstein (named in the letter), visited the pound in Nevada City last Sunday, October 5th. I believe he also talked to a number of city officials. Then he came to see me and conveyed the wish from the Humane Society that I contact the newspapers. He found only two dogs in the pound at the time of his visit, and they were immediately destroyed. He told me of the conditions there and also that the officials he talked to, had promised to remedy them. If conditions are not improved, I understand the pound can be taken away. He told me what needed to be done there.

This seems to me, to be a project, for some of the local organizations to take over. The Nevada City Business and Professional Women could do a lot for it, and I am sure they will. And there are any number of men's clubs. Then there are the Girl and Boy Scouts. If all these organizations let the city government know that they want a decent pound, properly taken care of, Nevada City will have one. There is an election coming. If one of the five candidates would make a "Nevada County Humane Society" part of his program, he will get my vote, no matter which one of the five he is.

This is the United States, remember, and even cats and dogs should be happy to be here.

Sincerely,
BELLE M. BROCK,
Nevada City, Calif.

STATE HUMANE ASSOCIATION OF CALIFORNIA
Office of the Secretary
2500 Sixteenth Street
San Francisco 3, Calif.

October 3, 1947

Mrs. Belle M. Brock
Brock's Motel
Nevada City, California

Dear Mrs. Brock:

Your letter was delayed in delivery to this office due to being sent to Sacramento, where someone received it and finally forwarded it here.

There is no humane society in Nevada County, and the nearest society is located in Sacramento. As you can see from this letterhead, ours is an association of humane societies, rather than a statewide humane society or SPCA. Strictly speaking, there is no statewide humane society.

However, although the Sacramento SPCA is a society which nominally confines its activities to Sacramento county, its field officer, Mr. B. E. Martenstein, is a most cooperative and conscientious humane officer. Like all humane officers, his authority is statewide, and he has done excellent work in securing improvements in pounds in nearby counties.

I do not know whether his schedule would permit his examining into conditions at the Nevada City pound, but I will forward your letter to him, since he is the nearest humane officer to that city. Naturally, he is quite busy with a great deal of work in Sacramento county, and if he is able to get up to Nevada City, it will be because of his extreme interest in correcting conditions for animals as much as possible.

Perhaps you might find others in Nevada county whose interest in animals, being equal to your own, might be interested in banding together to form a humane society. I can well imagine that such an organization is needed there, and that it could accomplish a great deal of good. If you are interested in such a project we would be pleased to assist you in any way possible through supplying advice or information relative to such an undertaking.

Very sincerely yours,
State Humane Association of California
CHARLES W. FRIEDRICKS,
Secretary

(NOTE: If there are others in either Nevada City, Grass Valley or elsewhere in Nevada county, interested in the forming of a Humane Society, as suggested in the letter above, I will be glad to help form one if you will write me, Belle M. Brcok, Brock's Motel, Nevada City, California. Mr. Martenstein took the time (on Sunday) to come up here immediately. He had just received the letter the day before, on Saturday. I want to take this means of thanking him publicly for his promptness and interest.
Belle M. Brock.

Articles of Association and By-laws were adopted by the members present and a board of directors elected to conduct its affairs. The temporary Board of Directors elected consist of the following: Roy J. Disability Insurance Payments Here Total $2,035

CHICO: Payments of state disability insurance in Nevada county during September amounted to $2,035, it was reported today by J. A. Ellis, manager of the California Department of Employment's disability section office in Chico.

"Most disability insurance claimants are eligible for the maximum weekly benefit rate of $20 because of the high amount of their earnings during their qualifying base periods," Mr. Ellis pointed out. "These benefits alleviate to some degree the loss of income suffered by individuals who become unemployed because of non-occupational sickness or injury."

Disability insurance coverage is guaranteed to all employees who are subject to the state unemployment insurance act. Approximately 25 per cent of the covered employees are protected by private voluntary insurance plans which have been approved by the California employment stabilization commission as substitutes for the state's plan.

First claim forms are obtainable at any local office of the department of employment. Each claim for benefits is supported by the certificate of the claimant's attending doctor, and must be filed between the fourteenth day and the twenty-first day of the disability.

AID TO NEEDY COSTS MORE

Aid paid to the needy in Nevada county for August, 1947, totalled $35,262, up 29 per cent from the $27,362 paid as public assistance in the county for August, 1946, California Taxpayers' association said today.

The August, 1947, relief payments went $31,816 to the needy aged, $1,381 to the needy blind, $1,528 to needy children, and $537 in general county relief. Relief for August was financed $15,092 from federal funds, $16,285 from state funds, and $3,885 from county funds.

Lookout for Cal seems to be a popular phrase lately. Undefeated thus far the Waldorfians are looking better each week. Seventy-eight thousand witnesses saw a fast hard-working California squad ride roughshod over the Gaels of St. Marys. After the game Phelan stated that the Berkeley gridsters could easily end up Rose Bowl contenders.

The half time score was 19-0 and the finale 46-6 with fullback Johnny Graves and the other Cal backs too much for the St. Mary's line Saturday afternoon.

Wedemeyer did very little damage to the rough hard-charging Cal line and his last stand in the Berkeley stadium was not as impressive as his first two appearances. Other injuries also jeopardized St. Mary's line.

Next game will be against Wisconsin and Pappy will have to cross his fingers in order to add up another victory. Wisconin is no pushover and excitement is a certainty. The game will take place at Madison and to pick a winner is too hazardous, so by flipping a coin will take a chance on Cal to continue on.

The UCLAns learned the same hard lesson Marchie Schwartz learned when Idaho beat Stanford in their opener. The boys from the Westwood campus bogged down only after substituting heavily with a mere two touchdown lead. Northwestern had the edge in first downs but UCLA outgained them on the ground, 205 to 153. Final score UCLA 26, Northwestern 27.

The above UCLA defeat was hard to take but doesn't reflect on the caliber of the team. UCS, Cal, and UCLA still loom as the big guns as was formerly predicted in this article. This week UCLA should easily subdue the Oregon grid machine.

Michigan is rolling and probably will go all the way right into the Rose Bowl and leave Pasadena victorious. Against Stanford the Wolverines ran up a 42-0 advantage and then let third and fourth stringers handle the second half. November 1st, when the Illini play Michigan, looms as the only possible halt in the Ann Arbor advance and even that is doubtful.

Rice and USC tied 7-7 after battling on close terms the whole game. Once Troy held the ball on the Rice three but fumbled. This week USC faces Ohio State in Columbus and will probably be favored although yours truly favors the Buckeye under the tutelage of Wes Fisher.

Army won over Colorado 47-0 and Black used everyone but the water boy. This week Army will play host to the Illini and after a rousing game full of cover the Illinois boys will receive the laurels.

Other predictions for this weekend include:

Alabama over Duquesne.
Penn over Dartmouth.
Cornell over Colgate.
Northwestern over Minnesota.
Georgia Tech over V.M.I.
Iowa over Indiana.
Duke over Navy.
Notre Dame over Purdue.
Harvard over Virginia.
Kentucky over Georgia.

If the words "weather" and "taxes" were removed from the language, a lot of people would be speechless.

LOOKING AHEAD

By GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

The "Camel" Method

Once the camel gets his head into the tent, he soon has his entire body inside. This old saw lends itself to some modern applications, but it fits none better than the current English situation. Socialism is indeed like the camel; it does not stop at part-of-the-way measures. To put it into a good old Southern expression, it's simply "whole hawg or nuthing."

A striking feature of the British "Crisis Bill" which recently became law in that country, was a clause giving government the authority to take possession of any industry which it might pronounce inefficiently managed. Actually, what this means is that no industry in England is safe from government confiscation. The threat will always be present, for the excuse of "inefficiency" could be trumped up at any time.

Invading the Tent

For five years I have contended, in this column and in public addresses, that no country could operate successfully with a "half-and-half" economy. If it's partly government managed and partly private enterprise, pretty soon Socialistic schemes find excuse to invade and take over. The present English government is proving my contention. It's the old "camel" process.

England is a country that long has been known for devotion to the freedom of individuals. Yet, within two years after she started her program of nationalizing major industries, it was found necessary to pass a law giving the government power to seize any industry it may choose on the excuse of "inefficiency." There's a lot of leeway there. An industry might be inefficiently managed from the viewpoint of production, or even from the viewpoint of non-cooperation with the government.

Camel Becomes Boss

Another striking feature of the Crisis Bill, as reported by the Associated Press, was that it gave the government power to tell both men and women where to work and what to do. This includes women from 18 to 40 years of age who have no children under 15, and men from 18 to 50 years of age. This loss of freedom of individuals has been unthought of heretofore in English speaking countries.

Control the Beast

It is my earnest conviction that England avoided this conscription of her industry and her people just as long as possible. These steps must have been taken reluctantly, for she long has championed all the freedoms that we hold dear. There is only one conclusion to be drawn: these dangerous and drastic steps cannot be avoided under a government managed economy. Once the camel's head is in, there's no keeping him out of the tent.

Every free American must take this as warning. If we want freedom to work at the job we choose, where we choose, and to bargain for our wages—then we do not want a government managed economy.

Self-pity sets off a chain reaction of bitter, harmful thoughts.

THE - Diary of a 49'er

FROM THE BOOK EDITED BY C. L. CANFIELD

AUGUST 24, 1851.—I have lazed around all the week tween the cabin and town. I picked up a pretty good mus- ng in Nevada, paid eighty dollars for him, and the first time ode him I wished mustangs had never been invented. He cked me all over Main Street. The town turned out to see fun and I could hear them yell: "Go it, Yank; go it, ncho!" but I stick to him until I got up on the trail and en I got off and made a few remarks so hot that they burned the chapparal. Gracious, my backbone still aches! Queer ing that when I led him up on the flat and got on again he ped off as steady as a plow horse.

While I was in town Thursday the crowd tied up three en to the bridge over Deer Creek and gave them twenty-five shes apiece, on the bare back, then turned them loose and nished them from the place with a threat to hang them if ey came back. All three were petty thieves, who had been ught stealing. I could not help pitying the poor devils. wo of them howled for mercy, but one gritted his teeth and ised the crowd with every stroke. There were but a few iners there and it would be hard to get together a worse lot savages than the ones who stood around gloating over the retches. The chances are that nine out of ten of the lookers- , if they got their deserts, deserved the same sort of punish- nt that was being dealt out to the culprits. The trouble is t most of the men are too ready to set themselves up as lges and, swayed by their passions, inflict penalties, even sentences of death, on insufficient evidence. Only three eks ago the mob hung a Chilean at Rose's Bar for horse stealing and the next day the horse he was accused of stealing was found in the hills above French Corral.

We have packed our pots, kettles, tin plates and Dutch oven down to the river camp, and I will nail up the old place and join the crowd in the morning. I sort of hate to leave it, although we will come back in the fall when we get through with our new enterprise. Looking back on the year past, I have had a pretty good time on the creek and have been more than lucky. There is no better companion than Pard, we have made money, our neighbors are mostly good fellows and, while it has been hard work and rough living, we have had health and appetities that would breed a famine. I have spent the day writing letters, one to Marie and a long one home to the folks. Won't have much time for writing for the next month or two.

OCTOBER 19, 1851.—I certainly have put in eight weeks of about as hard work as ever mortal man did, but am through with it and have made some money. It cost us for material, including everything, three thousand dollars, and we paid out four thousand dollars for labor. We took out twenty-nine thousand dollars in twenty-one days' work for fourteen men, or nearly fourteen hundred dollars a day. We worked both day and night, eight men in daylight and six men at night. We will divide twenty-two thousand dollars, or about twenty-seven hundred and fifty dollars for each one of the company. That is not bad, but it did not pay as much as the flat on the creek. Pard is disappointed, but I am very well satisfied. It as great work. First we built a flume close up on the north side of the river and about three hundred feet from the head of our claims, five hundred feet long, eight feet wide, and sides three and one-half feet high. We put a dam diagonally from the head of the claim to the head of the flume, turning all the water in the river through the flume. Then we built another dam at the foot of the flume to keep the back water out, and that gave us a stretch of five hundred feet of the river bed fairly dry. We ran two Toms and three rockers steady, wheeling dirt to the Toms and using the rock- ers wherever we found gravel. There were a lot of big boulders on the bed-rock, and it was around these and in the crevices that we got most of the gold. There was one big pot hole that we thought would be full of dust, but we did not get an ounce out of it. The richest spots were down stream in front of the boulders. We got one pan under a five-ton rock that had fourteen ounces. The most of the gold was fine. The big- gest piece we found weighed a little less than an ounce and quite a lot from a dollar to three dollars. At night we built big wood fires and used pitch pine torches to work by and the canon made a pretty picture, lit up by the blaze. On the 14th it began to cloud up and looked like it was storming up in the mountains and on the 15th it rained hard. The river began to raise and we got our tools out and by night the water was coming over the dam. At midnight she was booming, and in the morning it was a rushing torrent and there was no sign of dam. flume, or anything else to show where we had been at work, so we broke camp and took the trail for town. We packed the gold in on the old horse with four of us to guard it, and deposited it in Mulford's bank. I was mighty glad when we got it there for it has been a trial ever since we started to take it out, and the more we got, the more worry. Pard took charge of it during the day, slept on top of it—he worked nights—and I did the same at night. There was not much danger, however, as there were fifteen of us, including the cook—a pretty big gang for thieves to tackle. We have agreed to lay off for a couple of weeks, and what we will do then is uncertain. Pard talks of taking a trip to the Bay to be gone about ten days, to look after matters there, and wants me to go along; but I don't believe I will. If he finds things favorable he will buy some more real estate and I am willing to invest some more on his judgment. He tells me many of the coast valleys are settling up with farmers, who are raising hay and grain and are getting big prices for their crops. It may be a good farming country, but it looks pretty uncertain to me where there isn't a particle of moisture for seven months in the year.

Lookout for Cal seems to be a popular phrase lately. Undefeated thus far the Waldorfians are looking better each week. Seventy-eight thousand witnesses saw a fast hard-working California squad ride roughshod over the Gaels of St. Marys. After the game Phelan stated that the Berkeley gridsters could easily end up Rose Bowl contenders.

The half time score was 19-0 and the finale 46-6 with fullback Johnny Graves and the other Cal backs too much for the St. Mary's line Saturday afternoon.

Wedemeyer did very little damage to the rough hard-charging Cal line and his last stand in the Berkeley stadium was not as impressive as his first two appearances. Other injuries also jeopardized St. Mary's line.

Next game will be against Wisconsin and Pappy will have to cross his fingers in order to add up another victory. Wisconin is no pushover and excitement is a certainty. The game will take place at Madison and to pick a winner is too hazardous, so by flipping a coin will take a chance on Cal to continue on.

The UCLAns learned the same hard lesson Marchie Schwartz learned when Idaho beat Stanford in their opener. The boys from the Westwood campus bogged down only after substituting heavily with a mere two touchdown lead. Northwestern had the edge in first downs but UCLA outgained them on the ground, 205 to 153. Final score UCLA 26, Northwestern 27.

The above UCLA defeat was hard to take but doesn't reflect on the caliber of the team. UCS, Cal, and UCLA still loom as the big guns as was formerly predicted in this article. This week UCLA should easily subdue the Oregon grid machine.

Michigan is rolling and probably will go all the way right into the Rose Bowl and leave Pasadena victorious. Against Stanford the Wolverines ran up a 42-0 advantage and then let third and fourth stringers handle the second half. November 1st, when the Illini play Michigan, looms as the only possible halt in the Ann Arbor advance and even that is doubtful.

Rice and USC tied 7-7 after battling on close terms the whole game. Once Troy held the ball on the Rice three but fumbled. This week USC faces Ohio State in Columbus and will probably be favored although yours truly favors the Buckeye under the tutelage of Wes Fisher.

Army won over Colorado 47-0 and Black used everyone but the water boy. This week Army will play host to the Illini and after a rousing game full of cover the Illinois boys will receive the laurels.

Other predictions for this weekend include:

Alabama over Duquesne.
Penn over Dartmouth.
Cornell over Colgate.
Northwestern over Minnesota.
Georgia Tech over V.M.I.
Iowa over Indiana.
Duke over Navy.
Notre Dame over Purdue.
Harvard over Virginia.
Kentucky over Georgia.

If the words "weather" and "taxes" were removed from the language, a lot of people would be speechless.

LOOKING AHEAD

The "Camel" Method

Once the camel gets his head into the tent, he soon has his entire body inside. This old saw lends itself to some modern applications, but it fits none better than the current English situation. Socialism is indeed like the camel; it does not stop at part-of-the-way measures. To put it into a good old Southern expression, it's simply "whole hawg or nuthing."

A striking feature of the British "Crisis Bill" which recently became law in that country, was a clause giving government the authority to take possession of any industry which it might pronounce inefficiently managed. Actually, what this means is that no industry in England is safe from government confiscation. The threat will always be present, for the excuse of "inefficiency" could be trumped up at any time.

Invading the Tent

For five years I have contended, in this column and in public addresses, that no country could operate successfully with a "half-and-half" economy. If it's partly government managed and partly private enterprise, pretty soon Socialistic schemes find excuse to invade and take over. The present English government is proving my contention. It's the old "camel" process.

England is a country that long has been known for devotion to the freedom of individuals. Yet, within two years after she started her program of nationalizing major industries, it was found necessary to pass a law giving the government power to seize any industry it may choose on the excuse of "inefficiency." There's a lot of leeway there. An industry might be inefficiently managed from the viewpoint of production, or even from the viewpoint of non-cooperation with the government.

Camel Becomes Boss

Another striking feature of the Crisis Bill, as reported by the Associated Press, was that it gave the government power to tell both men and women where to work and what to do. This includes women from 18 to 40 years of age who have no children under 15, and men from 18 to 50 years of age. This loss of freedom of individuals has been unthought of heretofore in English speaking countries.

Control the Beast

It is my earnest conviction that England avoided this conscription of her industry and her people just as long as possible. These steps must have been taken reluctantly, for she long has championed all the freedoms that we hold dear. There is only one conclusion to be drawn: these dangerous and drastic steps cannot be avoided under a government managed economy. Once the camel's head is in, there's no keeping him out of the tent.

Every free American must take this as warning. If we want freedom to work at the job we choose, where we choose, and to bargain for our wages—then we do not want a government managed economy.

Self-pity sets off a chain reaction of bitter, harmful thoughts.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

How to Tell You're Getting Old

Doc Walters gave me this formula: It's a sure-fire sign you're getting old when you resent other people having a good time.

And the Doc means it hasn't much to do with age. There are old folks in our town who get a big kick out of seeing other people enjoy themselves—seems to keep them young in spirit, with a twinkle in their eyes!

And there are some others who resent the young folks going fishing; who feel that community games and dances are just a waste of time; or who criticize temperate people for enjoying a mellow glass of beer with friends.

They're often well-intentioned folks, too. But from where I sit, the minute we criticize our neighbors for enjoying wholesome pleasures—like a game of horseshoes, a glass of beer, or an afternoon's fishing—it's a sure sign we're growing old (in spirit anyway) no matter what our age is.

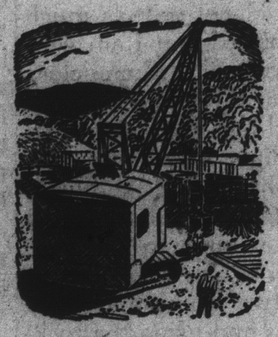
MEN at WORK all along the line!



Thousands of men are at work on scores of projects throughout Northern and Central California in this company's $350,000,000 expansion program to meet the future needs of this area for electricity and gas.

Some of the major projects in this construction program are:

KERN STEAM PLANT—A new $25,620,000 steam-operated powerhouse near Bakersfield to generate 235,000 horsepower of electricity.

MIDWAY SUBSTATION — A $10,300,000 project, including a 212-mile transmission line and a switching station to bring 220,000-volt power from Sierra hydroelectric plants to the Southern San Joaquin Valley.

MORAGA SUBSTATION—A $7,200,000 substation and transmission line project to bring 250,000 additional horsepower of electricity to the power pool serving Contra Costa and Alameda Counties.

MISSION STATION—A new $6,400,000 substation and two transmission circuits to augment the power supply of the San Francisco metropolitan area.

STATION "P" STEAM PLANT, SAN FRANCISCO—A $23,700,000 project that will increase the electric generating capacity of the present plant at Hunters Point from 62,000 horsepower to 360,000 horsepower.

ELECTRA AND WEST POINT POWERHOUSES — Two new powerhouses costing $19,600,000 with a combined generating capacity of 154,000 horsepower on the Mokelumne River.

ROCK CREEK AND CRESTA POWERHOUSES — Two new hydro plants on the North Fork of the Feather costing $61,800,000 and having a combined generating capacity of 270,000 horsepower.

This is the biggest construction job the P. G. and E. has ever undertaken and work is being accelerated as fast as materials and manufactured electric equipment are delivered. So far we are right on schedule to have the vast job done in 1951.
